OUT ON THE LIMB with George Vierhus

IN THE X NUMBER of years that we have been turning out this column, it has been produced under a variety of different situations and conditions.

But not without a typewriter in any instance.

That is until this week.

The normal routine, of course, is to pound out the little gems that appear in the column on our office typewriter amidst the noisy but well-organized confusion of our plant.

Strangely enough we have found that "the column" to use the term loosely, "flows" (?) smoother and faster when the newspaper bedlam at our joint is at its NORM--

Noisewise, that is.

OF COURSE, we have no idea how many decibles in sound this really means so we can't establish any kind of an equation.

But by trial and error, we know that it takes longer to turn out "the column" when it is all peaceful and quiet at our joint than it does under "normal" conditions, i.e. when all the guns are firing, so to speak.

But there are times that it makes no difference whether it is as quiet as the Campbell Memorial chapel or as noisy as Campbell's notorious "Classy Chassey", the column just pokes along in low, low gear which is considerably slower than any self-respecting snail's pace.

This happens to be one of those times.

NOT ONLY IS the copy flow slow but this column is being written in long-hand while we are reclining on our back in bed at home.

And that should slow up anything.

Following our doctor's orders, we must take it easy for a spell.

"Taking it easy" means that we have to stay away from the office because no one has yet figured out how to shift to a lower gear in that place.

Actually history is also being made. This marks the first time in all the years that "the limb" has been in existence that it has been written from a supine position.

Maybe, if Leeanna or Judy, The Press IBM machine operators, remember that historical point they won't be so upset over translating our long-hand scribbling---

Actually the typed-copy they ordinarily get from us is bad enough. .

But in long-hand?

Written while we were on our back?

That's pretty much.

A RECORD of which we were mighty proud went out the window this past week.

For more than 21 consecutive years, ever since the day we left the Army after World War II, we had not missed a day of work because of illness.

Until last week.

There were times during the past 21 years we might have felt like staying home but we always reported for duty and our record was unsullied.

The last time we had been in a hospital as a patient was in an Army hospital when we were in the service.

Until last week, of course, when Campbell Community Hospital was our host.

AS A PRO, based on our recent experience and first hand observation, we concede that on the whole great strides have been made in medicine and hospital facilities during the past two decades in which we have been a visitor only.

Except in one area in which we noted absolutely no advance has been made.

If anything, some retrogression may be noted.

We refer to the hospital gown worn by the patients.

This unattractive institutional uniform still remains the most unflattering bit of wearing apparel that was ever

A HEARTY WELCOME-Kenneth Lee, representing the Campbell Methodist Church, is pictured back in August, 1962, as he presented the key to a fully furnished home to Mrs. Albert Verlinder (Pauline Schuurmans), a member of the Indonesian refuge family sponsored by the church. The accompanying article by Mrs. Kenneth Lee tells how the family has fared since they arrived in the United States five years ago.

Refuge family fares well in U. S.

By:
MRS. KENNETH LEE

Many people have asked "What became of the family from Indonesia which the First Methodist Church of Campbell sponsored in 1962?"

Mrs. Kenneth Lee, who was committee chairman of the project, gives us a first hand report.

The Schuurmans family, comprised of the mother, Mrs. Aminah Schuurmans; son, Robbie, his wife, Rika, and baby Carla; daughter Pauline and her husband Albert Verlinder and their two children; and Nora, the daughter, arrived in Campbell from Holland on August 18, 1962.

Through the kindness of the people of the Campbell community and members of the Methodist Church, a fully furnished home awaited them. Because they were unable to speak English there were many difficulties at first in communicating and in getting work for the men.

Now five years later, the families are all doing well. The men and Nora are working at electronic plants in Palo Alto and Redwood City. The Verlinders have purchased a new home in Santa Clara and have two "American" children now.

Nora Schuurmans is to be married next summer and until then she lives with her mother in Redwood City. Robbie Schuurmans and his family also live in Redwood City.

They are all well and happy and send their greeting to their Campbell friends who opened their hearts to them when they came to a strange new land. They are now talking about applying for American citizenship.

20-year old Carl E. Abner dies in action

-killed in action

News was received last week from Vietnam that Marine Lance Cpl. Carl E.Abner had been killed in action.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Abner of 961 Crocket St. Campbell, the 20 year old Marine had been in Vietnam only a week at the time of his death. The news was received by his parents in a telegram from the Defense Department

A native of Campbell, Abner had attended Westmont High School and was employed at the San Toms Market before enlisting in the Marine Corp in August 1966. The youth had been home on a 40 day leave recently and had returned to duty Nov.18.

Carl Abner, Sr. is a sheet rock hanger and has lived in Campbell for 27 years. Survivors besides his parents are a brother, Wayne, 15; sister, Tammie Lee, 5 and his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Abner of Newport, Arkansas.

Military rites are pending at San Bruno National cemetery.

City employees look for raise

Campbell City Council is expected to make a decision at their meeting tonight (Jan. 3) on pay increases affecting city employees in all departments. David Valkenaar, president of the Campbell Municipal Employees Association, states that City Manager Bob Stephen's salary recommendations for 1968 are not high enough in view of today's cost of living.

Valkenaar and his committee indicated that an additional 2½ percent above Stephen's recommendation is deserved and just. However, he indicated that the Employees Association would be willing to compromise with 1¼ percent increase above the recommendation in view of the city's ability to pay and in all fairness to the taxpayer.

Stephens stated the city has set aside $30,000 for overall 3½ percent salary raises for the 98 city employees in 1968. If the Council approves the Employees Association's request the city would need an additional $8,000.

TOUCHY ISSUE

Another touchy issue of tonight's meeting is a recommendation by the City Manager that police officer's salary levels be raised ½ per cent. Stephens told the Council that recruitment is low in the Campbell Police Department and that Police wages should be in line with other police departments in neighboring cities.

OTHER ACTION

Police Chief John Morgan's request to send his application to the FBI Academy in Washington, D.C. was approved by the Council at last week's meeting. There is a long waiting list to attend the 12-week police training course which is held twice a year.

The appointment of Walter Doyle and Associates as appraisers of land authorized in the first sale of General Obligation Bonds was also approved by the council. The land includes 11 parcels on Grant Ave. to be acquired for the Civic Center Complex.

The seven man council approved the leasing of 3,175 sq. ft. of property next to the city engineering offices for parking. Department employees had been limited to four off-street parking places. The lease will give them five more spaces.

The Council also adopted a resolution protesting the merger of the San Jose-Sunnyvale-East San Jose and West Valley Municipal Courts.

Local man appointed assistant juvenile probation officer

Richard W. Bothman, 28, of Campbell has been appointed assistant chief probation officer by Robert E. Nino, chief juvenile probation officer.

Bothman fills the position vacated by Kenneth F. Fare, recently appointed chief probation officer of San Diego County. His starting annual salary will be $15,432.

A part of the 400-member Juvenile Probation Department for over 11 years, Bothman has held the positions of deputy probation officer, staff psychologist, supervising probation officer, and director of probation services.

Carneys believe 'It's better to give than receive'

by Sally Howe

The fellow employee who approached my desk at a San Jose school ten years ago was wearing a long face.

"Hear about Bob Carney's kid? Got hit by a car out in Campbell last night and they dunno if he's gonna make it or not."

The next night when I opened my CAMPBELL PRESS, my eyes fell on a front page item: "Bobby Carney, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carney, 365N. Esther Ave., was seriously injured on Tuesday afternoon at North Central and Grant Streets when his bike was struck....."

That was December, 1957. Although I didn't know it then, a few weeks later doctors advised the Carneys that Bobby's chances for survival were very slim and the chances that he would ever be physically or mentally able were well nigh impossible.

A few weeks ago, Bobby Carney was one of several hundred students from schools all over the county who raised their voices in song at the traditional A Cappella Choir Festival at San Jose Civic Auditorium.

In the audience were his parents, LaVerne and Bob Carney, Sr., probably the proudest of the proud.

On that fateful December 3, 1957, Bobby had been riding his bike over to his grandmother's house to see some special pies she'd made for Bobby and his four brothers and sisters. A few hours later he lay in the hospital, mentally numbed, and physically bruised. For 38 days he was in a coma. When he awoke, his doctor asked. "Do you want to go home?" "Yeah," was the youngster's reply. The next six months was a relearning process for the Hamilton school third grader. He had to relearn basic movement. His doctor's weren't sure he could. Bobby was sure, though, and in three weeks had mastered crawling, sitting, and finally walking. His right side was paralyzed and Mrs. Carney had to resist her impulse to help and keep him from acquiring new bumps and bruises.

When he graduates

Merger of courts

It has been suggested that the Los Gatos-Campbell-Saratoga Municipal Court be consolidated with the court serving San Jose and the Eastside and Milpitas.

The idea for the merger of the courts is not new but has gained impetus in recent weeks by the elevation of Judge Richard W. Rhodes, of the Los Gatos-Campbell Saratoga bench to the Superior bench. Judge Rhodes was the lone judge of the court.

The Campbell Press will never take a backseat as far as community lovalty is concerned. But this paper feels that there is considerable merit in the suggested consolidation of the municipal courts.

We feel that all phases of the situation should be carefully explored before crying that the area is being robbed.

A merger would not mean that the court building that serves this area would be closed.

Over-simplified it merely means that judges would be assigned to the court rather than the court have one or more permanent jurists.

We have long advocated that the judicial system should be as far removed from politics or personalities as is possible.

So the argument that cases here, if the merger was carried out, would be adjudicated by a judge who does not have the feeling of the community, leaves us pretty cold.

We would fight tooth and nail if any merger meant the closing of the court building in our area.

But consolidation could mean greater efficiency; more even case-loads for the judges and clerks; and better utilization of facilities.

So before we go off screaming that we are loosing our "local" judge to the big city fellows, the whole picture should be carefully examined.

Incidentally here are two editorials on the subject from our contempories in the field, Los Gatos Times Observer and the San Jose

SAN JOSE MERCURY

It doesn't do much good, blessed with the wisdom of hindsight, to complain bitterly that a single, county-wide district was not formed when the municipal court system came into being in Santa Clara County.

Practical politics and parochialism makes it difficult now to wipe out the fragmented systems, but improvements can be made.

The Board of Supervisors has seized upon the elevation to the Superior Court of the lone judge in the West Valley Municipal Court, Richard W. Rhodes, to reopen the running debate on consolidation.

First the supervisors expressed interest in merging the West Valley court with the district serving San Jose, the Eastside, Alviso and Milpitas. Now the Board has asked a committee of judges to look into the possibility of consolidating the West Valley, Santa Clara and Sunnyvale districts.

Supervisor Sig Sanchez said this could be first of a series of mergers which would leave the county with just three municipal court districts: the Palo Alto district as it now exists, the West Valley-Santa Clara-Sunnyvale unit and a district made up of the San Jose-Alviso-Milpitas and the South County courts.

This plan has considerable merit. It should lead to greater efficiency in terms of assignment of judges and clerks and utilization of facilities.

LOS GATOS-TIMES OBSERVER
CONSOLIDATE COURTS

West Valley Municipal Court Judge Richard Rhodes has been appointed to the Superior Court Bench.

The local municipal court has a heavy caseload for one judge--21,454 non-parking filings in 1966-67, and 23,000 projected for the current year.

The standard widely accepted for a municipal court is 15,000 non-parking filings annually, and the statewide average is about 16,500.

It is apparent that the job is getting extremely heavy for one judge, but that it would be rather light if another judge were to be assigned to this court.

With the elevation of Judge Rhodes and the vacancy thereby created, the time seems to be appropriate for discussion of consolidation of municipal courts within the county.

San Jose has 10 judges to handle 180,000 filings projected for this year.

Sunnyvale has two judges to handle only 12,000 filings this year.

Sunnyvale's municipal court load has been falling for several years. Since the freeways and express ways have skirted the local streets, and since that city has put its emphasis on public fire protection more than traffic citations, the drop has been remarkable.

The system of having separate municipal courts for several areas can result in this type of inequity--with Sunnyvale judges handling 6,000 cases, San Jose judges handling 18,000, and Los Gatos' single judge handling 23,000.

If the county were to have a single municipal court district, the case loads would be equalized, cases could be handled as rapidly as possible, and only one Chief Court Clerk would be needed.

We suspect that use of computer records would be simpler with a single municipal court district, as well.

For the most efficient use of available funds, courtrooms, and personnel, we urge immediate study of consolidation of municipal courts.

By forestalling appointment of a second West Valley judge, requested by Judge Rhodes, and by allowing assignment of judges from other areas to the West Valley, this district should save a minimum of $75,000 annually.

DESPITE THE MANY advances made in hospital facilities, the hospital gown of today is just as ridiculous as it always was.

We noted absolutely no visible changes in the pattern that was used 20 years ago. It is granted that the patient who dons a hospital gown is generally not in either the position or condition to be style conscious.

Therefore it has not been necessary to delegate some famous designer to put chic in the pattern, as has been the case of the airlines.

We also concede that convenience is getting in and out of the darn gown is of paramount importance.

But there still should be some happy medium, in our opinion.

EACH TIME WE climbed in or out of the hospital bed, our backside was exposed.

We couldn't help but get down to the bare facts at those times.

It was our conclusion that somehow medical science has been lax in that one vital area.

It is a field apparently that has not been covered.

There is this gap, see--

And the gap has nothing to do with the much-talked about credibility gap of LBJ.

DEVELOPING TESTS for drivers must be a frustrating activity.

Of course, that may sound like sour grapes, inasmuch as we have yet to attain a perfect score in those written drivers' tests one takes every four years or so.

We missed the maximum number of questions allowed when we took our last renewal exam.

We were a little disappointed about that because for the first time we had remembered to go in for the test before our license had expired.

But that's not the point.

We maintain that the present testing system to determine what person is qualified to drive is an ineffectual way to go about things.

And we are not just saying that because we missed so many questions, because we were rated "excellent" on the Nationwide TV exam given by Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace based on the National Safety Council's research.

OUR POINT IS rather academic. There are just too many people on the roads who shouldn't be there, regardless of their scores on the tests.

It is important to know the vehicle code and safety precautions, but watching out for the other guy remains, in our book, the most important of all.

And no test can cover that.

IN CONCLUSION--Those of you who have read this far have participated in an experiment, as far as this column is concerned.

It was written all in longhand which also involved long long-hand (not long-hair) thinking--

The doctors felt that the way we attack an innocent typewriter would provide too much exercise for us at this particular time.

But expressing our thoughts in long hand after all these years of typewriter-exposure is like wading in water with one's shoes on.

Carneys

from Campbell High School next June, he'll be following in the footsteps of sister Linda, now Mrs. Paul Antle mother of two; his brother Tom, and sister Janet, Mrs. Lester Wheeler, mother of one, (and perhaps two by the time this appears in print.) Of course, there were a couple of other people he knows who graduated from Campbell High. Like his mother, LaVerne, and father, Bob, Sr., a carpenter. (The Carney kids are fourth generation Californians) who remember Campbell "as it was." (LaVerne Carney was a member of the first and only Campbell High School graduating class who received their diplomas in the school auditorium, which was too small for ensuing classes.)

Christmas was, with the Carneys, as with everyone, a special time.

They don't concentrate too much on "getting" but an awful lot on "giving".

One of their primary concerns is a South Korean Orphanage at Il Bok San, called the Harry Holt orphanage. After all, it's from there their youngest daughter, Cindy, a seven year old second grade student at Hamilton School, came to them as a seven month old seriously ill child on June 3, 1960. (Campbell Press Oct.2, 1963).

They also feel strongly about giving locally. Like through their church, the Calvary Baptist of Los Gatos, where everyone in the family is doing a little giving.

Bobby, for instance, belongs to the church's the Charioteers, for high school age boys. Once a week, their advisors takes the boys to his own auto repair shop and allows them to work on their own cars under his guidance. What could be more fun for high school boys? Well, that one week when they don't work on their own cars might be kinda special. That's the week when they devote their talents to a car to be used by a returning Baptist missionary--rebuilding the engine, cleaning, and generally giving a nearly worn-out car as much as 20,000 additional miles.

Or maybe it's Louann, who gets up a couple of hours early every Tuesday morning so she can participate in a 6:15 class of religious education. Of course, you can't participate in the course unless you maintain your grades in regular classroom studies. Louann, like other youths of the church, hopes to use her training to teach migrants, or Indians, or go to Mexico during the summer, as some of her classmates have done.

Even Ronny, 9, a third grader at Hamilton School and Cindy belong to church groups and feel strongly about "giving" to the less fortunate.

When the Carney children and their families gather 'round for the holidays, their immediate family numbers 16, so this fall Bob and LaVerne decided that they'd enlarge their Esther Ave. house for the second time and construct a family room with a fireplace. Naturally it wasn't done in time for Christmas, so dinner this year was "buffet" style, but that didn't bother the Carneys.

After all, when your heart has room for as many as the Carney family, it's not the setting, or the gift, or anything that counts as much as "the spirit".

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to rebut your item "How Can it be?" in your "Out on a limb" column. To me the answer to all your questions is very simple. You say "My God, how can it be--That one boy lies rotting from malnutrition in a jungle prison camp in Vietnam, and another tramples the flag on the steps of the university? And you ask the same questions of a negro and a white man, of an army doctor, and an imploring civilian doctor, of a man of God etc. etc.

To me the answer is so obvious. I cannot understand why you should ask it. The student, the negro, the doctor, the minister are all saying the same thing. This senseless useless slaughter has got to stop. The student knows that it may be his body rotting in the prison camp next time. He exploits the Communist flag to draw attention to the fact that he does not want human beings killed by the representatives of our flag. And the Negro screams in the streets to tell the world that he, too, is human, and protests the injustices to his race. The doctor has taken the oath to save life,, and he chooses his way of stopping the killing of life.

A man of God preaches that we should love one another. He is considered a community leader; how can he condone killing and bloodshed?

How can it be, you ask? And students, doctors, ministers all have the same answer. It must not be, and they are doing their best in their way, to stop this stupid, useless war. It is the apathy of the non-dissenters that will keep the war going. I want to be a protester.

New Books at the CAMPBELL LIBRARY

POP GOES AMERICA, by William K. Zinsser

William Zinsser wants to be taken seriously, like every good humorist, but he still thinks that "pop" says it all-that America has turned into a pop culture and will not be turning back. By "pop" he means more than just pop art. Pop culture is the worship of form rather than substance-homage to the superficial. And this is the new trend that Mr. Zinsser sees running through American life.

THE GROUCHO LETTERS, letters from and to Groucho Marx.

America's Groucho lovers can have a look at the letters that he has written over the years to great and small, to family, to friends, to complete strangers. And some of their answers. Obviously, there has never been a correspondence like it. No personage too big, no naunce too small, no subject too far out for Groucho's spontaneous typewriter.

ADLAI STEVENSON'S PUBLIC YEARS, with text from his speeches and writings.

This book is the revealing chronicle of the public life of a man who, though he was never elected President of the United States, came to represent in America and abroad the qualities of cultivation and courage, humility and wisdom that people everywhere hope will characterize their leaders.

Catherine Dunton is bride

MRS. JOHN M. HOFSTRAND, JR.

Catherine Lee Dunton and John Milton Hofstrand, Jr. were married recently at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan H. Dunton, 18700 Harleigh Dr., Saratoga. Rev. E. Walter Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by only members of the families.

For her wedding, Catherine chose an ivory dulcette satin gown styled with portrait neckline, long tapering sleeves and a slightly belled skirt. Her silk illusion elbow length veil was held in place by a cluster of lace petals. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Alonzo H. Raymond III, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She was attired in an American Beauty red suit. Wilton R. Biggs stood with the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony the newlyweds cut a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake. The bride was lovely in a three piece beige suit as the couple left for a Carmel honeymoon.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hofstrand, Sr. of San Jose; presently in the Dominican Republic. He is a graduate of Willow Glen High School and is a junior at San Jose State College.

Catherine is a graduate of Westmont High School and also attends San Jose State College.

The newlyweds are making their home in San Jose.

Campbell Jaycees go a-caroling

The Campbell Jaycees and Jayceetes went caroling at the Shady Acres Rest Home during the holidays and brought gay Christmas stockings filled with goodies for the residents. They also hung colorful wreaths on the doors on each room.

Mrs. Roger Hughes was chairman of the event and Mrs. Phil Auger portrayed Mrs. Santa Claus. The group adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams for a party after the caroling. Mrs. Bob Dalzell is president of the Campbell Jaycettes.

The Jaycees also held a "Wives Recognition Dinner" at the Red Coach Inn and then gathered at the new "Adriatic" restuarant for cocktails and dancing.

Little league Dads play golf

Campbell Little League Dads held their annual golf tournament recently at the Pleasant Hills Golf Course. The contest was followed by a dinner and the awarding of prizes. League President Lou Ferrari states that fortunately for the boys the Dads know more about baseball than they do about golf.

MAN'S CLOTHES

From earliest antiquity to the 14th century, man's costume, loose, long and draped, underwent little change.

Did Santa Claus bring a new puppy to your house?

The wiggly little puppy which Santa managed to sneak into your house on Christmas morning has been a member of your family for two weeks now. How is he faring?

Is he still the center of attention or has his newness worn off?(and the spot on the carpet hasn't!

No dog should be the complete center of attention, but he should have a place in the scheme of family living. Of primary importance is that he have a place "to call his own". This can be a corner of the kitchen, out of the way of foot traffic, or a fancy bed in someone's room. If he has yet to completely understand what "those papers" are for, he could enjoy living in the bathroom--a rather "safe" room in terms of what a small pup can get into and in terms of what damage an "accident" on his part might cause.

Now that he's settling in--there are still a myriad of things to consider--there's no sense pretending that he isn't going to cause some problems--and some money. For instance, has he had all his permanent shots? Remember dogs nowadays suffer from the population explosion the same as people do, and there are many more germs around for them, too. Are you keeping his coat brushed and his nails cut? Although brushing isn't as important until he starts to get his adult coat, nail cutting is--for unless he gets used to it now, he may scratch around your hardwood floors for years.

What are you feeding him? Remember a puppy's appetite increases steadily until about a year, when he will cut back to a more reasonable amount. He must be fed often--four times a day if he's very small--at least three times till he's six months and then twice until a year.)Some dogs will decide at six months that one meal is enough--but will still enjoy some hard biscuits for breakfast). Be sure you don't depend entirely on either canned food or dry food. When the dog is an adult, he can subsist on such a diet, but as a growing puppy, he must have calcium, meat, egg, and other highly concentrated foods.

Lastly, don't pamper the puppy to the point that he's a complete baby, but don't expect to leave him alone all day and expect perfect behavior. A day is a long long time to him and if he's outside he'll undoubtedly "accidentally" knock down a flower pot and if he's inside, he'll chew the corner of the kitchen cabinet for lack of a better toy.

The easiest way to raise your Christmas addition is with common sense. Just treat him like one of the kids, Mom, and you'll both keep your cool.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

Q. - I filed for disability benefits a couple of years ago and was denied because social security said my condition was not permanent. Has there been any change that would permit me to receive a benefit?

A. - In 1965 a change was made in the disability requirements. A person may now get disability payments if he has a condition that prevents him from working and that is expected to last at least 12 months.

Q. - My claim for disability was turned down because I needed one more year of work under social security. May I pay the difference?

A. - No. There is no way to pay the social security contributions for work not actually done.

Q. - I have an apartment in my house that I rent. Is the rent I receive to be included in the $1500 which I may earn and still receive social security payments?

A. - The rental income is not earnings unless you are a real estate broker, and is not to be included in your report of earnings. Other types of income, such as pensions, interest, and dividends are generally not included in the beneficiary's earnings.

1 YEAR AGO

It is sort of a case where you lose even if you win. Members of the Planning Commission last night, Tuesday, were scheduled once again to be involved in a disturbing planning situation that concerned West Valley College and its relocatable classrooms.

Directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce met this morning to choose their officers for 1967. President, vice president and treasurer were to be named from the 15-member board of directors.

5 YEARS AGO

In a statement from the Mayor of Campbell, Peter B. Lico pointed out that California will officially become the nation's Number One State as of January 1, 1963. He is particulary proud that Campbell has played such a great part in the growth of this state.

Campbell High's Varsity Basketball squad failed in its effort to defend its Live Oak High School Tournament championship, this Christmas vacation, but they went all the way to the tourney finals and garnered second place before losing the title to a skilled and experienced five from Gilroy High. The Bucs lost the tourney finale, 54-34, last Saturday.

10 YEARS AGO

City Attorney Joseph Bonacina reported Monday night that he will have his ruling ready for the January meeting as to whether the controversial "Controlled Manufacturing" zoning question can be referred to the voters.

Homer Hyde, who completed his term as a planning commissioner in December, was reappointed to the Commission by the City Council Monday night.

Sales tax income for the City of Campbell is running ahead of budget estimates, City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan reported this week. A check received this week from the State Board of Equalizations of $16,187.33 representing receipts from third quarter sales, the largest yet to be received by the city and brings the total received this fiscal year to $40,177.90.

15 YEARS AGO

Laurance J. Hill, superintendant of Campbell Union High School District is the Campbell community chairman for this year's March of Dimes which opens tomorrow, as announced by San Jose Mayor Parker Hathaway, chairman of the campaign to raise $75,000 in Santa Clara County for the fight against polio.

Campbell's first seven-member planning commission received official status Monday evening when a resolution confirming Mayor Richard W. Morton's appointment was adopted by the council.

The way Russia is building up her merchant marine, she stands a better chance of "burying" us economically than militarily.

Today the United States, as the world's greatest trading nation, must rely on foreign flag vessels to carry more than 90% of our trade, while the USSR is following a long and carefully planned program of maritime development which will place her among the world's top shipping powers.

By 1980, Soviet shipping capacity will exceed our own by two to one. This strength will place Russia in a position to dominate foreign trade, buildup her foreign exchange, solidify and expand foreign alliances, and wield great influence over ocean freight rates.

A comparison of the Soviet rise and the U.S. downfall is not pleasant to view. Since 1958, the USSR has advanced from 21st to 7th place among maritime nations, while the U.S. has slipped from 1st place to 6th. Between 1951 and 1965 the Soviet merchant marine grew from 560 ships to 2.6 million deadweight tons to 1,250 ships of 9 million tons. During the same 14-year period, the active U.S. maritime fleet dwindled from 1,955 ships of 22.4 million tons to about a thousand ships of 15.5 million tons. Eighty percent of the Soviet fleet is less than ten years old--modern, fast, soundly designed. More than 80% of the ships in the U.S. fleet are over twenty years old and will reach the end of their useful economic lives within the next four years. In 1966 the U.S. put only sixteen merchant ships in service, totaling 225,000 tons. The Soviets commissioned 150 ships of more than one million tons. U.S. shipyards have only fifty ships on order today; the Soviets have ordered 600.

We're still carrying 98% of our war materiel to Vietnam by ship and to do the job we've had to reactivate more than 150 Victory ships left over from World War II. We're literally scraping the bottom of the maritime barrel--even without enemy sea action against us.

The Administration's response to this desperate situation has been wholly inadequate. In his 1965 State of the Union message, President Johnson promised "a new policy for our merchant marine"--which we're still waiting for. He has appointed two committees to study the situation--but has taken no action on their suggestions. The President's maritime budget request for FY 1968 might give us a dozen ships in a vessel replacement program which is already about 100 ships behind schedule. The allocation of our national resources to maritime affairs is becoming progressively smaller, and the problems of the maritime industry are increasing.

Each passing day makes it increasingly obvious that our country must have a modern, well-balanced merchant marine. As a world leader with global security commitments, the United States must face up to the issue of the sufficiency of its maritime power. If we don't it may mean our national burial at sea!

Capri student to compete in Cow Palace track meet

by Sally Howe

With the heavy emphasis on sports and physical fitness which has overtaken the American public in the past five years, it would seem there are few surprises left for the sports advocate.

And when Marlayna Harrington runs a leg as a part of a 660 relay team at the Cow Palace next Friday, who is going to think that Marlayna is doing anything unusual, unless, of course, you are impressed by knowing that Marlayna is a sixth grade student at Capri School and is 11 years old!

Marlayna has been "running" for three years now and is a part of the Millbrae Lions girls track team, an AAU sponsored group that travels all over the bay area 11 months out of the year, running indoors and outdoors, in "duels" (meets between two clubs) and "triangular" (three clubs) meets.

In order to qualify for the Cow Palace meet, Marlayna and her team mates competed at College of San Mateo just before Christmas with fifteen other teams. Only five of the participating teams qualified for the Cow Palace, called the "Examiner All American Games".

On Marlayna's team, two 9 year olds run 55 yards of the relay, two in the 10-11 age bracket run the anchor leg and two 12-13 year olds complete the team.

Sixteen clubs are locally recognized as part of the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, covering all northern California, the western half of Nevada, and central California to Gilroy.

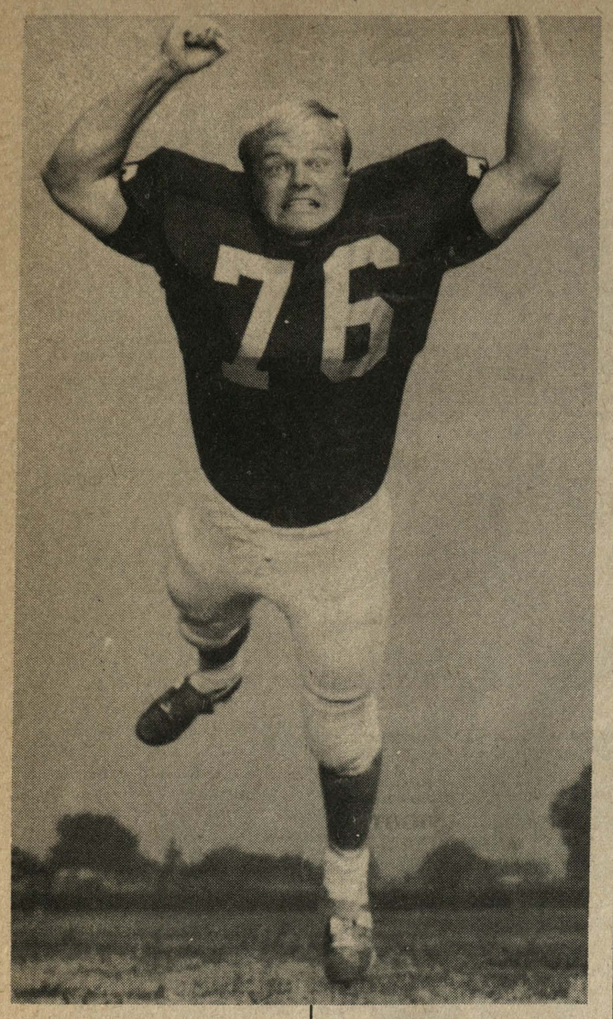
Coaches for the girls come from a variety of walks of private life--a medical doctor and researcher coaches one group, a former St. Louis Cardinal linebacker coaches another.

Marlayna's family, principally, her father, Gerald Harrington, have of necessity become a part of the track program. Harrington acts as an official at meets.

Many of the track and field clubs are sponsored by service clubs. Early training of the youngsters no doubt prepare the youngsters for later competition in Olympic events.

Harrington reports that there is a four year old girl in Inglewood, California, who is running a mile! (Could you?) At Leigh High School, Linda Langford is amazing coaches with her swimming, track and field abilities. At West Valley College, there is a female student who is an amazing shot putter.

At 1040 Steinway Ave. lives Marlayna Harrington and her twin sisters. Marlayna is getting ready. Right now, her sights are set on the Cow Palace. In a few years, who knows?



SPARTAN SENIOR--Mike Spitzer, defensive tackle from Campbell, is a senior letterman. He attended West Valley JC and played basketball and threw the discus in track. At Campbell High, Spitzer lettered in football under coach John Tranthom and was a West Valley League performer. As a Spartan, Spitzer saw plenty of action defensively making 13 unassited and 31 assisted tackles.

LONG ROAD AHEAD--Marlayna Harrington, 1040 Steinway Ave., prepares for a practice "sprint" on the Westmont High School track, part of her almost-daily workout in preparation for participation in a "meet" at the Cow Palace next Friday.

SOME OF THE RIBBONS--Marlayna Harrington may be an amateur but she's collected a very professional looking set of ribbons and medals during her three years of participation in track meets. Here she displays a few out of her box-full of wins.

Campbell lad symbolizes March of Dimes theme

MARCH OF DIMES THEME BOY--Little Craig Perry, a member of the family which operates the Chandler Convalescent Home in Campbell, has been named 1968 March of Dimes theme boy for the Santa Clara County March of Dimes. Here, he is shown with his father, Wallace Perry.

Young Craig Perry, a member of the family which operates the Chandler Convalescent Home in Campbell, has been named 1968 March of Dimes theme boy for Santa Clara County--symbolizing all the birth defective children in the county. He is a victim of meningomyelocele (open spine).

Craig, who will be three January 15, is the son of Wallace Perry, grandson of Mrs. Wilma Perry, and great nephew of Mrs. Stella Chandler.

Like many of the 250,000 defective youngsters born each year in the United States, young Craig is a puzzle to the medical world. There is no hereditary reason for his defect, nor has any other reason been found. He has two hale and hearty brothers, Scott, 5 and Dean, 4.

Craig has been a patient at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center at the Stanford Medical Center since he was but a few days old. He currently goes there twice weekly for physical therapy treatments which develop his muscles and teach him to maneuver in the braces he must wear on his legs. Every few months he is seen by a panel of medical specialists who check on his treatment and recommend any changes.

The Stanford Birth Defects Center is one of 100 such March of Dimes Centers established by the national voluntary health agency, which will go into its 30th year next month.

Each Center offers children born with defects the best medical treatment available through teams of medical experts representing many specialties. More than half of the nation's medical schools and many of the country's most distinguished physicians are associated with the March of Dimes Center program.

FARMS THE SAME

The number of farms in operation in this country today is about the same as in 1875.

CHECKS MAIL--Donald R. Kennedy (right), Campbell director of the March of Dimes, this week checked out the mail appeals that go into local homes. Here, he works with H.A. (Bud) Beaudoin, Saratoga director. The mail appeals will go into 263,500 homes in Santa Clara County.

March of Dimes campaign opens

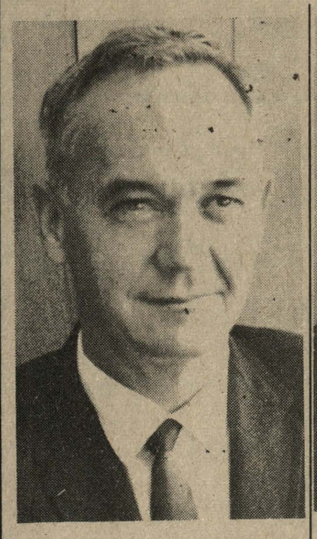
Mail appeals for support of the National Foundation's fight against birth defects arrive in Santa Clara County homes this week as the official opening of the March of Dimes.

The March of Dimes will last through January, with a variety of fund-raising events in the different communities. All, however, participate in the mail campaign, with 263,500 mailers going out in Santa Clara County.

The March of Dimes for 1968 is being headed by Donald Kennedy of the Bank of America.

Today he urged his fellow townsmen and women to answer the mail appeal early and to make the response generous. The need for funds is urgent, he said, if continued progress is to be made in reducing the figure of 250,000 babies born each year in the United States with birth defects.

Bond campaigners appointed to parks and recreation board



DON HEBARD

HENRY CARY

The Campbell City Council appointed Don Hebard, 205 Calado Ave., and Henry B. Cary, 113 N. Second St., to the Park and Recreation Commission, to fill the vacancies left by the resignations of Bill McLain and Willis Gist. The appointments are for three year terms.

The Council also approved the reappointments of Mrs. Edith Morley and Mrs. Margaret Fraker. The other members of the commission continuing in office are John Billmeyer, chairman; Frank Kukuk and Mrs. Betty Grizzle.

The two new appointees served as members of the Campbell Citizens for Progress which promoted the recent successful bond election.

The next regular meeting of the Parks and Recreation Commission will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 10 at 8 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

Jan. 6 is deadline for spring semester at West Valley College

Deadline for application for admission to the spring semester at West Valley College for day students is January 5, Donald Ziegler, dean of admissions and records, reminded potential students this week.

Students entering for the first time must be graduates of high schools within the West Valley College District, which comprises Campbell Union High School District, Los Gatos-Saratoga Joint High School District and Santa Clara Unified High School District.

Such students must take either the ACT or West Valley College placement tests, which can now be taken on Jan. 6 at 8:15 a.m. or 12:15 p.m., or on Jan. 10 at 6:45 p.m.

New students will be programmed between Jan. 15-19, and counseling appointment letters will be mailed to incoming students on a priority basis. However, Ziegler warned, no student will be scheduled for a counseling appointment until all entrance requirements are met.

Next step comes when the student reports to the Student Union for validation of registration, at the day and time listed on his schedule of classes, and classes begin on Feb. 5.

Mass rabies clinic Sunday

A CAMPING WE WILL GO--One tent, two lanterns, two ice chests and eight sleeping bags were among the equipment recently delivered by Pacific Telephone employees to the Eastfield Children's Home in Campbell. Jack Daulton (left), Jack Matthewson and Charlie Dwyer are members of the Campbell Community Relations Team which began collecting camping equipment for the home last fall. The team also held a drawing and raised $240 to buy the latest contributions for children at Eastfield.
